Wood carving

Wood carving is another art form found in many parts of India and has a long history. Here one can see the carving of an elephant in rosewood and the Indian national emblem in sandalwood. Rosewood is very amenable to carving. Sandalwood is very soft and has a pleasant aroma. Sandalwood oil is used as a perfume. The Sarnath Lion Pillar is the emblem of India. The four lions represent power, courage, and confidence. The dharmachakra (24 rungs) represents wheel of the law, and elephant, bull, lion, and horse represent four directions. The lotus flower representing the fountain of life and inspirations. The writing in Hindi means "Truth alone triumphs".
